

Monsignor Stanley To Be Honored Tonight at St. Mary's Reception

Parish School Hall Will Be Scene of Felicitations for Priest Elevated to Monsignor on Papal Order.

GET TOGETHER

K. of C., Benedictine Hospital, Church Trustees and Priests Take Part.

This evening in St. Mary's school hall, Broadway and McEntee street, starting at 8 o'clock, the public reception for the Very Rev. Monsignor John J. Stanley, will be held in the form of a parish get-together to enable his congregation and friends to express their felicitations on his promotion in the ranks of the clergy of the Roman Catholic Church.

Garbed in the new purple robes, indicative of his monsignorship, the honor bestowed upon him by the Pope in Rome, last September, Monsignor Stanley will attend the celebration arranged in his honor, surrounded by the Knights of Columbus, a delegation from the staff of the Benedictine Hospital, of which he is president, and priests from the deanery including Ulster and Sullivan counties, and trustees of St. Mary's Church.

Delivers Address

The Rt. Rev. Monsignor Joseph H. McMahon, Ph. D., of Our Lady of Lourdes, New York city, will deliver the address, and James F. Dwyer, of the board of trustees will make a presentation in behalf of the parish.

The program: Processional, Riccobono's Orchestra. Introduction, William Bussey, St. Ave Maria, Martin Kelly. Address, Rt. Rev. Monsignor Joseph H. McMahon, Ph. D. Ecce Panis, St. Mary's Male Choir.

Presentation, James F. Dwyer. Remarks, Very Rev. Monsignor Stanley. Recessional, Riccobono's Orchestra.

After the program there will be assembly dancing with music by the Riccobono ensemble.

Children Have Program

This morning at 9 o'clock, the children of St. Mary's Parish attended a Mass for Monsignor Stanley, offered by the Rev. William H. Kennedy. The children's choir sang.

Monsignor Stanley sat within the chancel, accompanied by the Rev. B. C. Roth and the Rev. James F. Moore of St. Mary's, and the Rev. Arthur Quinn and the Rev. Bartholomew Singleton, of New York.

After the Mass, the children held a program in the school hall, and presented Monsignor Stanley with a bouquet of flowers. Miss Virginia Perry made the presentation, saying as follows:

Upon hearing of the great honor conferred on you by our Holy Father, the Pope, we, your children said, "What can we do to show our affection for our beloved pastor?"

We have nothing of value to give and yet our love is founded on the gratitude of children for their father and it is as deep as that of your friends who have already presented their hearty congratulations and gifts.

We have in our perplexity turned to Him from Whom you have taught us to expect every good and perfect gift; we have told Him our need and have asked Him to bestow on our beloved pastor the gift which we in our poverty are unable to procure.

These flowers, dear Monsignor, symbolic of the spiritual bouquet which we have made for you will, indeed, soon fade, but the love, the gratitude and the prayers which accompany them will live forever and grow each day brighter and more beautiful.

Accept, dear Monsignor, our little offering and be sure that there are none on this festive occasion who have a warmer love for you than we, the children of St. Mary's School.

Monsignor Stanley expressed his thanks to the children for their gift and the kind sentiments they expressed.

EARLY LIFE IN VERMONT REVEALED

Vergennes, Vt., Oct. 27 (AP)—Archaeologists today expressed belief they had uncovered ground state implements giving evidence of human habitation in Vermont 1500 to 2,000 years ago.

Discussing the result of excavations at the junction of Otter and Dead creeks, John H. Bailey of the Rochester, N. Y., Museum of Arts and Sciences asserted: "This is the first time that a site in the northeastern archaeological area has ever produced ground state implements in relation to other implements of known date."

"This find, we believe, will clarify one of the hitherto unsolved problems of New England archaeology."

Bailey said he believed it now would be possible to fit the ground state implements into the cultural sequence.

Kingston's Public Service Fleet

It takes a city block to accommodate the entire motor fleet developed during the Republican administration of Mayor Conrad J. Heiselman, who insists on efficient public service. Chief Mechanic Harold Middaugh, shown here with Max Oppenheimer and David Conway, assistant superintendent and superintendent of streets respectively, has 37 motor units on his list of equipment—modern ash trucks, that leave no dust or dirt; snow plows and snow loaders being among the pieces.

LaborPeaceGroup Adjourns; Offers Are Not Accepted

Washington, Oct. 27 (AP)—Labor's peace conference recessed today until November 4 after each side had turned down the other's peace proposal.

Harvey Fremming, one of the CIO organization negotiators, said the recess was "in no way considered a permanent disagreement."

He said the American Federation of Labor's three-man delegation had "learned some things they didn't know before" and added that the conference broke up because "we all had a lot of other things to do."

Joseph Curran, national maritime union president, and another CIO negotiator, emerged from the conference room in an apparent good humor and said:

"Well, now, we have got to go up and elect Mayor LaGuardia (of New York)."

The CIO had turned down the A. F. of L. peace proposal earlier.

Lewis Says No

Washington, Oct. 27 (AP)—John L. Lewis, C. I. O. president today rejected the American Federation of Labor's counter-proposal.

"The proposal suggests abject surrender," Philip Murray, chairman of the C. I. O. peace committee, said in a statement issued two hours after the Federation had suggested dissolution of the C. I. O. as the basis of the settlement of labor's strife.

Murray said the Federation had called for the C. I. O. unions which originally were affiliated with the A. F. of L. to "desert and betray the twenty-three new national and international unions that have joined the C. I. O. since its formation two years ago."

Murray also described the Federation's offer as "merely a re-affirmation of its former policy and certainly it does not contemplate the organization of the unorganized into strong unions."

Rejection of Organization

"Their proposal, as we understand it, constitutes a rejection of the principle of industrial organization in mass production and other basic industries," Murray said.

"It has been clearly demonstrated by the committee for industrial organization that the mass production and other basic industries must be organized on industrial lines."

"The A. F. of L. proposal indicates that the A. F. of L. is still determined to prevent such organization, even though it may prevent the organization of the millions of unorganized workers in such industries."

The federation's three-man peace committee, headed by George M. Harrison, president of the Railway Clerks, submitted this proposal to a peace conference this morning.

It came as a counter suggestion to the C. I. O. proposal of yesterday for establishment of an autonomous C. I. O. department in the A. F. of L.

The A. F. of L. proposal called for:

1. Return to the federation of all C. I. O. unions that once were A. F. of L. members in good standing.

2. Conferences between all other C. I. O. unions and the corresponding unions in the Federation, to try to work out a program for bringing the new C. I. O. unions into the federation upon mutually agreeable terms.

3. Settlement of all outstanding differences at the next A. F. of L. convention.
4. Immediate dissolution of the C. I. O.

Cites Misinformation on Fire Truck Purchase as Suggested by Chief Murphy

"I am astonished to know that the city judge is so ignorant of the state law that he thinks cities of this state, with the exception of New York city, get any share of the motor vehicle fees," said Mayor C. J. Heiselman addressing the big rally of the Eighth Ward Republican Clubs in the rooms on McEntee street Tuesday evening.

The mayor was speaking on the question that had been propounded by Judge Culliton at a Democratic rally in which the judge had asked: "Why don't Mayor Heiselman tell you that the revenue received from state sources, that is, motor vehicle tax, license fees, etc., is the highest revenue received in the past 10 years?"

Rousing Welcome

As the mayor entered the club rooms last night he was given a rousing welcome. Mayor Heiselman said: I see by the latest issue of one of the local papers which are being scattered free throughout the city for political purposes that my opponent is continuing his campaign of attempting to draw the red herring across the trial of this administration's accomplishments.

Nothing that the city judge can say will take from the voters' minds the knowledge that we, during the past difficult years, have done a tough job well. My opponent is making many wild, false, misleading and malicious statements. The purpose of these statements, of course, is to try to discredit my administration so he can have my job. He is not interested in serving the people. He is interested only in the job. The voters, of course, in this day and age cannot be fooled. The more he tries, by unfair and untrue statements and methods, to cast discredit on the administration we have given, the more the voters are turning away from him. The day for bunking the public is past. The public today demands facts, action and results. That is what my administration has given them. My opponent gives them only hot air and untruths.

"The question which must be decided by the voters is who is the best qualified by training and experience to administer their government during the next two difficult years."

This campaign is not a popularity contest, a beauty contest, or a handshaking contest. This is an election to decide who is to spend the taxpayers' money, not to build up a political machine, but to supply the various municipal services, provide educational and recreational facilities and discharge our responsibilities to those less fortunate than ourselves.

Will Compare Record

Naturally, the voters know this. They will compare the record of accomplishments of my administration with the record of my opponent's administration of the city court, and the manner in which he as county chairman has administered the affairs of the Democratic party of Ulster county. Ask any informed Democrat and he will give you the right answer.

I was under the impression that my opponent, as a city judge, was familiar with the state law, but I find that he is not. In his Monday's speech he asks the absurd question: "Why don't Mayor Heiselman tell you that the revenue received from state sources, that is, motor vehicle tax license fees, beverage licenses, etc., is the highest revenue received in the past 10 years?"

Montague Plans Richer Life as Result of Verdict

Elizabethtown, N. Y., Oct. 27 (AP)—Acquitted of a seven-year-old robbery charge, John Montague plotted today a new and richer chapter in his life.

Shortly after a jury freed the golden pal of movie stars, officials of the Paramount Studios announced in Hollywood that "Mysterious Monty" had signed a contract amounting to $1,000,000 in seven years.

The pact was signed with Everett Crosby, Bing's older brother, and calls for appearances on the radio, in pictures and as a professional golfer competing in the nation's most valued tournaments, studio executives said.

"I hope eventually to get back to Hollywood," he told friends after a jury acquitted him of the 1930 kidnapping of the son of a movie star, when he was known as Laverne Moore.

The spectators jumped to their feet and cheered when the verdict was returned. Montague was smiling.

But Presiding County Judge Harry E. Owen banged his gavel, ordered the spectators out of the aisles and looked sternly at the jury.

"Gentlemen, this verdict is not in accord with what I think you should have returned. That, however, is up to you."

Before the jury was discharged, Montague roared and said: "Gentlemen of the jury—"

Two Young Men Rulers Of Vast Steel Empire as Taylor and Irvin Retire

New York, Oct. 27 (AP)—Rule of the vast empire of steel mills, ore and coal mines, railways and steamships that is the United States Steel Corp., passes to new and younger hands.

Edward R. Stettinius, Jr., 35-year-old son of a Morgan partner, and Benjamin F. Fairless, 47-year-old son of a coal miner, are taking over the chairmanship and the presidency of the two-billion-dollar enterprise, employing directly a quarter million people.

They were definitely assigned to their posts at yesterday's meeting of the board of directors, at which two 65-year-old Titans of steel prepared to retire to less onerous duties.

Myron C. Taylor, present chairman, said he would not serve again when his term expires next April 4, and it was announced that Stettinius would take his place. The directors also chose Fairless to succeed William A. Irvin as president, effective January 1.

Remaining for Taylor

Simplification of the capital structure, closer integration of plant operations and a "revitalization" of the internal organization through infusion of new and younger blood were the three "tasks" of the task Taylor wished to accomplish before relinquishing the reins.

With this done he will assume a less active role as a director and member of the finance committee and Irvin will serve as vice chairman of the board.

Complementing the shifts in the top executive ranks, directors chose J. L. Perry, president of Tennessee Coal, Iron & Railroad Co., Birmingham, Ala., subsidiary for the presidency of Carnegie-Illinois as successor to Fairless, and named Robert Gregg, vice president of the parent corporation, as president of the Birmingham unit.

With Taylor's retirement next April, Ender M. Voorhees, vice chairman of the finance committee, will assume the chairmanship vacated by Stettinius. Voorhees, a former vice president of Johns-Manville Co., came to the steel corporation early this year.

Dividend Declared

Rounding out the drama of personalities, the board declared a dividend on the common stock for the first time in five and a half years.

A statement for the quarter ended September 30 showed net income of $50,617,638, equal to $2.79 a share on the common, compared with $35,173,682 for the June quarter, or $3.43 a share, and $12,636,177 or $4 a share in the September quarters of 1936. For the first nine months net income was $95,522,873, equal to $2.77 a share, compared with $87,874,904, or $1.26 a share last year.

Japanese Decline to Have Part in Nine Power Conference in Brussels November 3 — Say Treaty Obsolete.

SOVIET HOLDS BACK

All Participating Nations but Russia Ready to Discuss Alien Soldier Withdrawals.

By The Associated Press.

Diplomatic efforts to deal with the world's two wars—the civil war in Spain and the undeclared Chinese-Japanese conflict—received sharp setbacks today.

Japan, in effect, denounced the nine power treaty which guarantees territorial integrity to China and by which world powers hoped to mediate the Asiatic war.

Russia still held back from agreement with other powers of the European nonintervention group on methods of getting foreign fighters out of Spain—a step to lessen the danger that other nations will become involved.

Formally declining to participate in the nine power conference to be opened in Brussels on November 3, the Japanese foreign office declared the nine-power treaty was obsolete—because of the "infiltration of Communism" in China.

The nine-power treaty, signed at Washington in 1922, pledged Belgium, the United States, Britain, France, Italy, the Netherlands, Portugal, the United States, and Japan to respect China's territorial and administrative integrity.

Other countries subsequently adhered to the treaty.

Direct Negotiations

The Japanese foreign office statement reiterated Japan's contention she is fighting in self-defense and said "the Chinese-Japanese difficulties can be solved only through direct negotiations between the two powers."

Meanwhile, on the battlefield the Japanese army was exerting its utmost power to smash the Chinese into submission. Japanese troops captured Changai, the native section in north Shantung. War planes sprayed the Chinese with machine gun bullets.

Japanese at Peiping said their troops had launched a general offensive near Nianzhekuan in the northern province of Shansi.

In Shanghai, United States marines were authorized by Admiral Yarnell, commander of the American Asiatic fleet, to open fire in self defense on any airplane attacking them or non-combatants in their sector of the international settlement.

Plans go Forward

London, Oct. 27 (AP)—Movement gathering force among other powers to reach some sort of agreement on Spain's foreign soldiers—with or without Russia—threatened today to leave the Soviet Union out in the non-intervention cold.

All other participating nations agreed last night to the British proposal specifying that belligerent rights be granted to both the Spanish government and insurgents when "substantial progress" has been made in withdrawing alien warriors from the civil conflict.

When the diplomats resume their bickering Friday, it was expected they would reach an agreement on a withdrawal plan—including Moscow if possible, but without her if the Soviet Union would not come in.

Informed sources said Italy had been persuaded to withdraw her flat refusal to be bound in advance by neutrally determined figures on foreign troops in Spain, but Italian quarters said no such agreement would be made until the personnel and duties of the investigating commission had been determined.

It was obvious that any plan, without Soviet adherence, would be very rickety. Because there are numerous Russian soldiers in Spain on the side of the Valencia government, it seemed incredible that Italy and Germany would withdraw their aid from the insurgents without similar action on the other side.

The 27 European nations bound in the neutrality accord studied the withdrawal plan in private calm today where members of their nine-power subcommittee yesterday spent five wrangling hours—the delegates of four nations at one time all talking at once and in four different languages.

New York—The harvest season is over in the heart of Manhattan, where "the highest corn in the country" grew this summer.

The World Of Stamps

By James B. Hatcher

Last Of The Incas
The Spanish conqueror Pizarro collected a $4,000,000 ransom for the last king of the Incas, Atahualpa (1502-33). Heathered headgear, earrings and all, this king is pictured on the 5-centavo value of a new five-stamp series from Ecuador.

Atahualpa ("Victor and sweet") inherited the kingdom of Quito. He has just defeated his half-brother Huascar in a civil war when Pizarro marched inland. Pretending friendship, Pizarro met Atahualpa at the great square of Cuzco.

Fraud Atahualpa refused to become a Christian or acknowledge Spain's Charles V as his master, so Pizarro signalled his warriors. They killed hundreds of Atahualpa's practically unarmed men.

Pizarro himself captured the king who offered in ransom a roomful of gold and silver. The Spaniards took the bullion, but kept Atahualpa. A few months later, in the spring of 1533, his captors, trumped up charges of murder, sedition and idolatry against Atahualpa and condemned him to death—by fire because he was an idolater. A priest intervened, baptized Atahualpa, and got his sentence changed to hanging. The Peruvian empire died then, too.

The Ecuador set includes: 2-c green, native scene; 5-c deep rose, Atahualpa; 10-c blue; "Panama" hat weavers; 20-c deep rose, sea-coast scene; 1-sure olive, gold washer. These stamps were also issued with the overprint OFICIAL in black.

At the same time, Ecuador produced a new airmail set of five values. The design shows a condor flying above the mountain El Altar.

Denominations: 10-c chestnut, 20-c olive, 10-c black brown, 1-s slate black, 2-s violet. This set, too, was overprinted OFICIAL.

great Belgian violinist who led the Cincinnati Symphony orchestra three years, is honored by two semi-postal stamps and a souvenir sheet from Brussels.

Bearing a picture of Queen Mother Elizabeth and part of a violin, these stamps were issued for the International Music congress. The surtax goes to the Queen Elizabeth Musical foundation. Ysaye's name appears at the bottom beneath the title of the congress. The 70 plus 5-centime value is printed in black, the 1.75-franc plus 25-c in dark blue. Photographure process is used.

Postoffices throughout Belgium sold these stamps for a month beginning September 15, opening day of the musical congress. The miniature sheet, using stamps of the same design, printed in red brown and red, violet and costing a total of 20 francs, 20 centimes, was sold only on September 15 at the congress and at the Brussels postoffice.

Ysaye was born in Liege and made his debut as a violinist at 7, after two years of teaching by his father. His world-wide reputation grew as he played in Berlin, Paris and London during the eighties. He was violin professor at the Brussels Conservatoire, 1886-98, and founded the famous orchestral concerts.

Queen Elizabeth was his friend and constant visitor during his long, final illness. His leg had to be amputated, but he worked on to finish his opera, "Peter the Miner." It was written in Walloon dialect and included folk-songs of his people.

The stamp collectors of the Hudson Valley will hold their Third Hudson Valley Stamp Exhibition at the Hotel Campbell in Poughkeepsie, on November 19 and 20, in observance of International Philatelic Week. The exhibition is being sponsored by the Dutchess Philatelic Society, one of the clubs of the Hudson Valley Regional Division of the National Federation of Stamp Clubs.

Collectors from all parts of the Hudson Valley plan on entering exhibits and competing for the four cups to be presented as awards and many other prizes. The First Hudson Valley Stamp Exhibition was held by the same club and at the same place in 1935 and was attended by collectors from six states and the District of Columbia, with a total attendance well over 1,000.

There is strong rivalry among the member clubs as well as the individuals as the club whose members accumulated the most points through the awards and places won, receive the possession of the Club Trophy, which is the Harold S. Mills Trophy, presented by him when he was president of the Dutchess Philatelic Society in 1936. The trophy is now in the possession of his club, it having been won at the exhibition held at the Governor Clinton Hotel in Kingston, in 1936.

Fleeing from the John Wanamaker department store in Philadelphia after staging a $1,200 holdup, a man (above) giving the name of A. W. Gregg of Milwaukee was trapped by pursuing police when a bellboy stuck his foot in the revolving door of a hotel. A customer was seriously wounded by the bandit.

ALLEGED VICTIM OF MRS. HAHN IN COURT

George Heis, shown in court at Cincinnati in a wheel chair, was summoned by the prosecution as a witness in the trial of Mrs. Anna Hahn for the poison death of Jacob Wagner, elderly German. Prosecutor Dudley Outcall called Heis "Mrs. Hahn's only living victim."

"I'm Heis was crippled by poison after drinking beer with Mrs. Hahn."

REPUBLICAN NOMINEES

The Republican Party in Ulster county has been continued in responsibility and its candidates in office by the votes of the majority of the people far more than other political parties. Republican candidates have deserved this vote of confidence and voters are reminded to again consider the candidates and what they stand for.

For Member of Assembly, J. Edward Conway received re-nomination because he has been capable and conscientious with a keen understanding of the problems of all the people of Ulster county.

Other county candidates are Vanderlyn T. Pine for county treasurer and Norvin R. Lasher for coroner. They were selected on their records and they appeal strongly to the voter, who expects competent conduct of official business.

For Mayor, Conrad J. Heiselman was renominated because he has given Kingston its best business administration.

For Alderman-at-Large, John J. Schwenc was renominated because of his honest and efficient record he has made in that office.

For City Judge, Matthew V. Cahill was chosen because he is an experienced lawyer, equipped with plenty of common sense.

For Supervisors and Aldermen, the Republican Party nominees are men familiar with public affairs whose judgment can be relied upon in conducting official business in a manner to reflect credit on themselves and benefit to the taxpayers and ratepayers.

BALANCED PRICES

Perhaps as good an explanation as any, for the recent slump in security prices, is that of Henry G. Heimann, executive manager of the National Association of Credit Men. He gives four causes.

First, "the disturbed international situation."

Second, "uncertainty as to future business legislation and taxation policies" which brought a lack of confidence among business men and investors.

Third, "the market had run ahead of business recovery." Stock prices were too high—not necessarily higher than current business would justify, but higher than there was good reason to expect for the near future.

Fourth, "consumers' resistance to constantly mounting prices." This rise in prices, Mr. Heimann holds, was due largely to "labor unions who forced industry to pay wages out of line with reason." Other authorities say it was also due largely to unjustified hoists made by many business interests, especially in the building trades.

INCOME

Experts are estimating the national income of the American people this year at $70,000,000,000. This is about $10,000,000,000 less than the 1928 level, but nearly $20,000,000,000 above the depression bottom. On their face, these figures seem to mean that we have come about three-fourths of the way back.

100,000,000 a year before a real boom comes.

The prospect for next year, according to various economists, is about the same as this year. If they are right, and if the economist referred to is right, we may expect to make time for a year or so and then break all prosperity records in 1939.

AIR RISKS

It almost seems as if death were playing a grim practical joke on the passengers of that big plane which crashed near Salt Lake City. There were on board two newscast men who were making a picture entitled "The Safety of Transcontinental Flying."

Transcontinental flying, and also local flying, are really surprisingly safe on the whole, when compared with early air transportation. An accident, even a small one, is very exceptional. The mileage flown per passenger killed or injured runs up to an amazing figure. Larger planes, better trained aviators, better instruments and new scientific safeguards, give more and more assurance of safety.

Yet it must be admitted that the safety margin is still lower than the margin for railroad passengers. And it may remain so, in spite of further improvements, because the medium and the conditions are less controllable. This risk is the price the air passenger pays for speed and adventure, and people seem willing to pay it as planes improve in comfort and efficiency. Flying is now as much a part of modern life as motoring was a generation ago.

Two's Company

By MARGARET GILSON HERZOG

The Characters
 Nina has married David, trying to escape her intense love for her stepfather.
 Richard, the charming, well-tailored stepfather, tried to prevent her marriage.
 Honey, Nina's gay, plump, youthful mother, is crazy about Richard, her recently acquired husband.
 David, a bright young auto salesman who works for Nina's father, is her stepson.

Chapter 21

Afraid To Go Home

NINA had urged her mother not to hurry home.
 Richard would still be away,
 she pointed out, and she herself was plunging right into housekeeping.

She urged that Honey carry out her usual plan, with Horse-face, and then, when she returned,
 the apartment would be settled and they could have more time together.

The truth of it was, Nina did not want to see her mother just yet.
 She wasn't ready.
 She wanted to convince herself
 that she could be perfectly happy with David, before being reminded that she had married him out of loyalty to Honey.

Grudgingly, her mother consented.
 But on arrival one afternoon
 in a frenzy of excitement.
 To show his appreciation at being reunited with the family, he did his damndest to wreck the place; knocking things over with his incredibly strong tail, leaving wet nose marks on the day-bed cushions, and generally doing his poor best to distress his joy.

He even glanced longingly at the synthetic dogwood, blooming so temptingly beyond his reach.
 "Now, if those were only lower,"
 he told Nina and David with his eyes. "I'd know how to leave my mark on them, too." But they weren't, and he could only look.

"He's going to be a great companion for you, Nina," said David.
 And Nina answered, "Ye-es"
 ... a touch doubtfully.
 But she really did love the engaging young fellow.

After a honeymoon that was strung out to 10 days by virtue of two weekends, David went back to his salesroom in the Broadway automobile district, and Nina took up the study of cooking and bed-making in a big way.

She knew how she liked a bed to feel, and food to taste, but she had no idea how to produce results.
 Burnt fingers, an aching track,
 and frequent trips to the incinerator with inedible dishes, seemed to be the only reward of her labors.

And at that, she probably didn't make as many stupid mistakes as most inexperienced brides, because she put her very good mind to it
 ... and didn't bother with trying to do deliberately amusing things, that would make good telling but had eaten afterward. Her fault lay in that she was too ambitious.

She spent long hours cleaning the nickel gods on the stove with silver polish, because she was so strong for an immaculate kitchen, and found that she had barely time to mop the floor, before David came home.

She gave difficult and unnecessary personal-maid attention to the appointments in the bedroom, and then had to rush to the bathe-room, like bed-making and carpet sweeping. The dishes she threw away were soufles and biscuits ... not hamburger and potatoes. But she soon learned that there is invariably a bakery around the corner, from every love-nest; and that a smooth coverlet and a whisk of the vacuum cover a multitude of sins.

The Fried Egg Situation
 Lier proudest moment was on the third Sunday morning, when she had forgotten the butter for the fried eggs that David had asked for ... had no lard or grease of any kind, and finally surmounted the seemingly insurmountable difficulty by using cold cream.

David said they were excellent,
 and only turned mean and clutched his stomach afterwards ... when they were eaten, and she confessed.

That she never set her nose out of doors during the day except to market and take, Button for walks
 ... did not disturb her. She would work out a system presently, and then there would be time for other things.

That there was no money for other things, she did not realize until the system was worked out
 ... and that was not for a very very long time.
 How in the world did housewives with big houses and families manage? When she was rushing from early morning to dewy eve, with only one tolerant man, and three the "feyers" ... she mustn't forget that important chamber. This problem of management was a

CHALLENGE

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M.D.

ASTHMATIC ATTACKS

Asthma is now considered a group of symptoms due to various causes. The effect of these causes is to tighten (or make smaller) the little air tubes that carry the air from the tiny airsacs back to the large bronchial tubes and thence out of the body.

Naturally a little portion of mucus that is in these tiny tubes has a hard time getting out, and so hard coughing is necessary to remove it.

While search by skin and other tests is being made to find why the little tubes are being made smaller or tighter, or anything else that may be interfering with the inward and outward flow of air, something must be done to prevent or shorten the attacks.

I have spoken before of the suggestion of the Asthma Research Council of Great Britain.
 The patient kneels on a chair, puts his hands on the floor with his head between them and then coughs vigorously for one or two minutes. This "upside-down" position together with the hard coughing is usually sufficient to remove the plug or mucus from the tiny air-sac or tube and so give relief.

For years the use of three or four drops of amyl nitrite inhaled from a handkerchief, atropine, al-trophylin, morphine, epinephrine (adrenalin), and other drugs have been used with success during attacks. The injection of 15 drops of adrenalin often stops an attack instantly as it opens up the tiny little air tubes and also the large bronchial tubes so that the patient is enabled to breathe naturally.

Instead of using the adrenalin
 by injection, physicians in Denmark, Great Britain, and the United States have had success in inhaling a solution of adrenalin 1 to 1000, instead of the solution of 1 to 1000 as used when injected.

Drs. Graesser and Rowe, in American Journal of Diseases of Children state that.

In a comparatively short time
 this method—inhaling a 1-1000 solution of adrenalin—has become of universal usage, and may be regarded as the greatest single advance in the treatment and pre-ventation of asthmatic attacks with recent years.

The point then is that the search for the cause of asthma—pollen, dust, fur, feathers, obstructions in nose and throat—should always go on, but in the meantime it is very satisfactory to know that one more effective method of relieving attacks has been discovered.

SHOKAN

Shokan, Oct. 26.—Mr. and Mrs. Gabriel Richard of Flushing,
 L. I., spent Thursday and Friday at their country home on the state road.

The spillway of the Ashokan Reservoir, in flood for the first time in several months, presented an unusually beautiful sight Sunday on account of the great volume of clear water which was pouring over its crest. Tributary streams of the reservoir, though raised to fresher proportions by the heavy rainfall of Friday and Saturday, were nevertheless not discolored by clay and other soil particles.

Allan Hughes of New Jersey
 spent Sunday with his father, Francis Hughes.

Mrs. Albert Didier of Flushing,
 L. I., has been visiting her mother, Mrs. Auer Longyear.

Many Odd Fellows, Rebekahs
 and their friends of the north shore section are planning to attend the Rebekahs' annual masquerade in the I. O. O. F. Hall Saturday night.

Charles Green, well-known village fruit grower and farmer, is one of the early birds at fall plowing this year. Mr. Green has been tearing up the sod of his hay field across the state road from his house.

Alex Hamilton, formerly of the Tonawanda neighborhood, was a caller here Friday. Mr.
 Hamilton is employed at one of the hotels in Phoenixia.

Mrs. Anna Sampson of the heights neighborhood went to Poughkeepsie Wednesday for a visit with friends.

F. J. Robeson of New York City spent the week-end with Mrs. Mabel Robeson and children at the Dunnigan farm on the Boiceville road.

Mrs. Santl Nadel is spending some time in Canada.

NEW TRAFFIC CODE

By
 Police Lieutenants
 PHINNEY and SIMPSON

Lieutenant Charles Phinney in his safety article today discusses parking vehicles in streets, which should be read with interest by every automobile and truck owner.
 The article follows:

There are numerous restricted areas on streets in this city that prohibit the parking of automobiles, as well as many streets that permit but one hour parking, all of said streets are properly posted and there is no excuse for not seeing said signs if you will look for them. Why do we suppose those streets are restricted? The answer is, so as the volume of traffic can have free access to get through such streets that are adjudged by the officials in charge of traffic regulations as being too narrow to permit parking on both sides of the street, or where it interferes with fire trucks coming out of the various fire houses and where busses require ample room to turn from one street to another, these ordinances were adopted for the best interests of all drivers, and if complied with, traffic can proceed more freely than it could if but one car was parked in an area that is restricted. It is seldom that a person is arrested for parking within ten feet of a fire hydrant or within fifteen feet of a theatre or building where large assemblages of persons are being held, why?
 Because those two restrictions stand out in your mind, why not give the same consideration to the others that are plainly marked on the street for you. Another thoughtless place to park a car is adjacent to, or alongside of a FULL STOP SIGN, how do you suppose a person who is not acquainted with our traffic regulations is going to observe these signs if your car is parked alongside of one or directly to the rear of one.
 It is really unfair to out of town traffic, therefore they are liable to arrest for the fact that you are unfair in placing your car where it interferes with the vision of these signs. In the city of Poughkeepsie they have much less territory than we have here in Kingston yet they have 25 more policemen than we have, therefore you can readily understand that it is impossible for our police to regulate these provisions as fully as they should be regulated, and that is one of the many reasons that these articles are being written, so as to have motorists cooperate with the police and refrain from parking in such areas where it is detrimental to other users of the highway. Were the restricted areas not marked you would not be molested by the police, but the fact that they are,
 you must comply with the regulations or else be humiliated by being arrested and dealt with accordingly.

They had thought of the Empty

Cast of 100 Will Entertain Friday At League Affair

Members of the Kingston Junior League have found that work aplenty as well as fun goes with the producing of a show.

That bundle of humor and frivolity "The Galettes of 1883" which is to be presented Friday evening, October 29, at the New York State Armory, Manor avenue, is taxing its members to the utmost.

Nearly a hundred members of the cast are setting all Ulster county agog with impromptu rehearsals in every possible nook and corner, humming catchy tunes and memorizing their lines from the hilarious melodrama which is the main item of the "Galettes."

The Eagle Hotel nightly rocks with the stentorian vociferations of the rehearsing cast of that old time blood-chiller, "Only a Farmer's Daughter" or "Adrift on the Ocean of Life."

One of the lovely entr'act specialties is a tableau "The Bells of Maytime," which reproduces with all the quality of a Degas painting a ballet of the "Naughty Nineties."

Six of Kingston's prettiest ingenues clad in the sparkling tulle of the old ballet tread a stately Gavotte as a background to the charmingly professional "Pas de Pointes" by Miss Jane Ball. One of the side-splitting musical comedy numbers is a lyric plea by Mrs. Newton Fessenden to bring back "Those Good Old Days."

She is supported by the six "Belles of the Period," the Mesdames Robert Hancock, Jacob Templer, William Fuller, Leon Chambers, and the Misses Margaret O'Meara and Mary Staples. Several of the best voices in Kingston have solo specialties in the production amongst which is the charming soprano of Mrs. Clarence Wolfenstork.

In order to carry out to an even greater extent the atmosphere of the old time Music Hall tables will be arranged around the floor in place of the usual seats. Here the audience may sit and partake of refreshments while at the same time enjoying the show. There will be regular seats also for those who may prefer them to the tables. Tickets for this auspicious occasion may be procured from any number of the Junior League.

Rosedale Ledger. George W. Nichols of Kingston, R. F. D. No. 3, Blinewater, has certified to the county clerk under the provisions of the assumed business name law, that he is conducting a business at Rosedale under the name and style of Rosedale Ledger.

IT'S ODD But It's Science

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE (AP Science Editor)

New York—Man has entered the era of conurbations.

That's what Professor C. B. Fawcett, English geographer, calls the change which one century has made in city life. In 1901 London, he points out, with 950,000 inhabitants, was the only city which approached one million.

But today there are about 60 cities of a million or more inhabitants.

A dozen of these exceed five millions each. In these 60 cities dwells one-twelfth of the earth's human population. That's conurbation.

Garden Club Holds Open Meeting and Hears of Mexico

On January 13, the special train of the Garden Club of America left Grand Central Station on its 8,600 mile trip to Mexico and return. Among the 147 women passengers was Mrs. Herman A. Kelley of St. Remy, a member of the Ulster County Garden Club. With a large and interested audience, Tuesday afternoon, Mrs. Kelley shared her experiences of this trip at the open meeting of the Garden Club held in the parish hall of St. John's Church. On a wall hung different maps of Mexico and on a long table before the speaker were numerous articles collected in the Mexican cities. Mrs. Henry L. Bibby, wearing a Mexican costume, showed the typical dress of the Mexican women.

For most of the journey in Mexico, the train was in two sections and all through the country, heavily armed soldiers guarded the travelers. The description of the places visited showed a great power of observation and included interesting historical facts, amusing anecdotes and a graphic description of the scenes and flora of the country. Especially incredible were the flowers which rivaled those of California in their variety and abundance.

Of the famous Rosary Silver Mine, 100 miles from Magatlan, Mrs. Kelley told an interesting story connected with its traditions. In 1655 an Indian lost his rosary and spent the night searching for it. In the morning, he found that his camp fire had melted the silver in the ground, and so this great mine was discovered.

In the city of Guadalajara, the second largest city in Mexico, the party visited the glass works and potteries for which it is famous. Time was so limited that each person bought frantically and huge baskets of treasures were packed and transported to the already teeming baggage car. Before they left Mexico this car was packed to the roof, and the group was delayed four hours at the border trying to unearth dutiable articles that had to be found.

Mexico in all its unspoiled beauty was seen at Uruapan. Its tiled roofs, its cobbled streets and the Indians swarming out of the dirt floored, thatched roofed houses were the real Mexico. The natives' clothes, though often ragged, looked bright and clean and everywhere were flowers and music, the stirring rhythmic airs of Mexico. Instead of jazz, the little street urchins whistled snatches of opera.

Several of the Mexican lakes, said Mrs. Kelley, were suggestive of the Italian lakes.

On January 22, the travelers reached Mexico City and were driven to the Hotel Reforma which was not quite a month old. It is in the most modern taste and the housekeeper underwent six months' training at the Waldorf Astoria in New York city.

In describing the natives, Mrs. Kelley said that 80 per cent of them are pure Indian or Mestizo, a mixture of Indian and Mexican with a slight tincture of Negro blood. Few Spaniards are found in the country and the Negroes are practically non-existent. "The inhabitants of Mexico are beautiful people," said Mrs. Kelley. "They are slender with fine features, small hands and feet, soft voices and courteous manners. In spite of their fragile appearance, they are incredibly strong. Nine days were spent in Mexico City, during which time many interesting excursions were taken to neighboring places."

On the homeward trip, a few hours were spent in Cuernavaca, where tea was served in the Morrows gardens, called poetically, the "Seven Gardens of Loveliness". The little secret garden where the Morrows slipped away from their duties for a brief rest and where Charles and Anne Lindbergh had a chance to forget their fame, had an especial appeal for all.

In addition to the members of the Ulster Garden Club there were present their guests and members of the Saugerties and Kingston Little Gardens Clubs.

Folks nowadays expect prayers to be answered immediately. In the old days a knee would get down on her knees and ask for a loving husband, then patiently wait for years for him to appear. But nowadays a girl no sooner finishes a prayer like that than she looks under the bed right away for results.

It used to be thought that a decline in the use of intoxicating liquor meant a rise in the amount of candy eaten. Many confectioners believed their business would fall off when repeal came in. The reverse has happened. A recent survey showed that consumption of candy has been steadily rising since repeal. Between 1930 and 1936 candy has followed the same ups and downs as other luxury sales. Right now candy consumption is very high.

Robbins; first vice commander, Edward Underhill; second vice commander, George Maines; third vice commander, William Rose; treasurer, Hampton Robinson; adjutant, Thomas Vachek; service officer, John Lowther; chaplain, Edmund C. Burhans; sergeant-at-arms, Arthur Petschke; Americanism officer, Harold W. Bennett; County Commander Wesley A. O'Brien; of Glenford, conducted the installation. McEntee was appointed to plan for patriotic rally and meeting to be held at the high school on Armistice Day night, November 11, in connection with the nationwide celebration and observance of the 150th anniversary of the adoption of the United States constitution.

ANNUAL DONATION
DAY FOR WOMEN'S HOME

Saugerties, Oct. 26—The annual donation day for the benefit of the Home for Aged Women, located on the corner of Market street and Ulster avenue, will be held this year on Thursday, November 18. Donation day for the home is a fixed custom in the village and town of Saugerties when the residents make their contributions of money, foodstuffs, canned goods, vegetables, etc., for the benefit of those who are residents of this institution. The Board of Managers of this home earnestly hopes that the spirit of giving again will prevail.

Business Men Make Plans

Saugerties, Oct. 26—A group of Saugerties business men held a meeting recently in the Phoenix Hotel and plans were made to boost Saugerties as a shopping center. The organization will be known as the Saugerties Boosters' Association and its aims will be to create a "Buying in Saugerties Consensus" among local and nearby residents. The business men have agreed that too much trade is going elsewhere and the local stores have noticed the slump in trade. The date for the first special sale under this new plan will be held on Election Day, November 2. Thirty-six business men have enrolled and they promise to make Saugerties an inviting and desirable place to trade in.

For smart appearance and solid comfort, it's hard to beat these English striped broadcloth pajamas. They are generously cut and have an open collar. The trousers really do get down to the ankles—a valuable feature lacking in many pajamas.

Flannel robes are old favorites, and their popularity is certainly deserved. This one (at left) is a lemon yellow solid color robe, cut with a wide skirt. Its cuffs carry two or three-letter monograms in metal.

When the weather isn't specially cold, a silk dressing gown is recommended. Good for traveling, as it doesn't take up much space. Also handy to slip on over your evening clothes in place of the dinner jacket or tailcoat before you go out of an evening.

For cold weather, a pair of sheepskin lined slippers will keep your ankles snug. These kid slippers have solid leather soles and are popular with many men.

At the top of the column is shown a cocktail jacket made of bottle green velvet, with black ribbed-silk lapels. You wear this in place of an ordinary suit coat at home in the evening. The rest of your outfit should retain its status quo.

The flannel lounging pajamas shown below the smoking jacket are most comfortable. They consist of a loosely cut jacket and flannel slacks to match. For chilly winter evenings they are ideal for wear around the house. And for Sunday mornings, too.

The curve style pipe is especially comfortable when you're deep in an easy chair curled up with a good book. Both pipes have capacious bowls. The lower of the two is the familiar Church Warden model.

Esquire's eti-query

Whether or not the wrist watch is correct when a tailcoat is worn is a question that puzzles a lot of our correspondents. The answer is, in a word, No. The wrist watch is permissible with the dinner jacket, though most men prefer to wear pocket watches with both dinner jackets and tailcoats. The wrist watch is never recommended for use with the tailcoat.

Although far more wrist watches are worn, there is a definite increase in the popularity of the pocketwatch for all types of wear. The smart new watches are very thin, and while one International jeweler contrives to place a watch within the confines of a $20 gold piece, a great many smart watches are being made that are larger than a silver dollar (but not very much thicker). Pocket watches are correct for all types of day clothing, as well as for evening wear. Some, designed for evening, have jeweled bars or numerals. For country wear the pocket watch in a sliding leather case is practical. Pocket watches are particularly smart worn on chains made of large, heavy gold links. With day clothes, the chain may be worn either between the lower pockets of the waistcoat or from the side trousers pocket to the forward braces button (or trouser watch pocket).

Wrist watches may be worn in town or country. In the city, leather straps are recommended, and we have seen black suede straps on wrist watches with dinner jackets.

The two most favorite shapes are the circular watch and the long, narrow oblong. Some manufacturers make the oblong watch in a curved shape, corresponding to the shape of the wrist, and one company has a watch that fits on the end of the wrist level with the thumb. This watch may be consulted without turning the wrist. For summer wear, or for wear at southern resorts during the winter, you can procure linen wrist watch straps in colors to match your outfit. These are washable.

FIGURES TELL THE TRUTH!!!

Kingston has needed for several years a Junior High School to accommodate at least 1,600 pupils. This would relieve the disgraceful congestion in the high and grade schools, where children are crowded together under conditions that are unhealthful to pupils and teachers alike.

Kingston would have such a school today had the city administration accepted a Federal gift of $382,500. The administration hedged at the last moment and killed a proposed bond issue to pay the city's share. The city, however, was compelled to pay about $19,000 in architect fees and other expenses incidental to the preparation of plans authorized by the Common Council and the Board of Education. This money might just as well have been dumped into the Hudson river, for the city has not or will not receive a profitable return from it.

It is claimed the "Eighth Grade School", planned and rushed through only as bait for the parents of children attending school, will be the same size as the original High School. Proof of its capacity to serve the city's needs lies, not in the dimensions of the building, but in the number of classrooms. The new building will have 19 such rooms and will seat no more than 840 students.

The Number Of Children Without Proper Seating Accommodations Totals Nearly 1,600.

How can a building to care for less than that number be said to be adequate? Figures prove the administration is making a serious mistake.

Why did not the administration seek Federal aid in the construction of the new school? The reason is clear—the responsible officials who should have taken steps to remedy conditions long ago were faced with the necessity for speed. They knew the Federal Government would not approve plans until a thorough investigation had been made, and that would require some time—more than the administration could afford with an election a few weeks away.

Predict G. O. P. Mid-Term Convention Early in 1938 To Adopt Positive Program

Washington, Oct. 27 (AP)—Two developments caused persons in touch with the Republican National Committee to predict today that it will sponsor a mid-term party convention early in 1938:

1. Former President Hoover devoted much of his speech in Boston last night to arguments in support of such a conference, which he said should adopt "positive and affirmative principles."

2. Alf M. Landon, 1936 Republican presidential nominee, conferred yesterday with National Chairman John Hamilton over methods of selecting delegates if a convention is approved by the committee at a special meeting November 5.

There have been reports that Landon was not enthusiastic over the convention idea. Nevertheless the fact that he and Hamilton discussed such details as delegates led many followers of the situation to assume he believes a national meeting will be held.

Landon issued a statement saying: "We are particularly concerned that if the national committee should decide to hold a convention that the rank and file of the party should be represented in the deliberations, as well as in the consideration of any report on behalf of the policy committee."

(Advocates of the convention have suggested that a policy committee of party leaders should first draft a tentative set of principles.)

Appeal to Opponents

Both Landon's statement and Hoover's speech advised that the Republican party appeal to all opponents of the Roosevelt administration. Hoover used the suggestion of a coalition, previously advanced at the Vandenberg of Michigan, as another argument for a national convention. "People fuse or coalesce around ideas and ideals," he said, "not around political bargains or stratagems."

Landon said that whatever may be done along the lines of a policy committee or convention "should be to the end it will afford an opportunity of expression for all groups in opposition to the administration."

Some critics of the convention proposal have expressed concern lest it might further individual candidacies for the 1940 presidential nomination.

Hoover referred to that argument as a preface to declaring, "I do not want any public office." His statement started immediate political discussion somewhat like that aroused by Calvin Coolidge's famous "I do not choose to run" statement in 1927.

Some commentators noted that Hoover did not say he would "not accept" a nomination, but that he did "not want" an office.

In his speech last night, Hoover added this sentence to his "do not want" statement:

"There is no form of words that would convince a suspicious politician that any man under 85 can have any other purpose of interesting himself in public affairs."

Defendant Again

Providence, R. I., Oct. 27 (AP)—For the second time in eight weeks, Walter E. O'Hara was made defendant today in a libel suit filed by Governor Robert E. Quinn. Latest development in the protracted "Battle of Narragansett Park" between Quinn and O'Hara, the race track's managing director, the civil suit was brought less than three hours after O'Hara called Quinn a "dictator" in a radio talk. As the turfman-publisher stepped from a hotel High Sheriff John Baird served a warrant and took him into custody.

The semi-monthly meeting of the Zena Society was held Friday evening with Roy's Secretary E. T. Bookwalter of the Kingston Y.M.C.A. speaking on the subject of "Hobbies." Albert Holmizer was in charge of the meeting which ended with a social hour. Several members of the Ponckhockie Society were guests at this meeting.

Party at Wurts Street

The Senior Christian Endeavor Society of the Wurts Street Baptist Church will hold a Halloween costume party at 7:30 p. m. Friday, October 29, in the church hall. Entertainment and games will make up the program. All Endeavorers are invited to attend.

Delegates Talk

The delegates sent by the Ponckhockie Congregational Society to the leader's conference held at Onondaga recently, led the Sunday evening meeting of the Congregationalists, dwelling on the subject, "Improving My Church and Society." The monthly business meeting and social was held Tuesday evening and plans for a large delegation to New Paltz were made.

All Members Out

President Helen Bloeker reports that the New Paltz Society had 100 per cent of its members present at the Sunday evening meeting. The meeting centered around a discussion of the liquor problem with Mrs. G. W. Vulliamy acting as chairman, and after the usual period ended, reports on the progress of the convention committee were received.

Highway Courtesy

Beatrice S. Dowley led the Comforters in a discussion on practices of drivers of automobiles and their connection with religion through an attitude observing the Golden Rule. A lively discussion ensued with a certain amount of merriment inserted into the meeting by the remarks of the members. This society will not meet next Sunday as a special evening church service will be held, beginning at 7:30 o'clock in the church auditorium. A Halloween party will be held Friday evening under the sponsorship of the social committee. All members are invited. This group will sponsor a Thanksgiving service on Sunday evening, November 21, which will be open to the public.

Japan Denounces 9-Power Treaty measure as fierce fighting, intensified by the retreat of Chinese troops from Chapel to a new defense line, raged menacingly around the International Settlement.

Tremendous fires set by the embattled Chinese and Japanese raged through Chapel, native quarter of North Shanghai, and even penetrated the settlement at one point. Chinese aircraft raided the Yangtzepoo section, dropping incendiary bombs which started more fires.

The combat brought into play the full power of Japanese warships in the Whangpoo and Chinese land batteries. They fired steadily until after midnight.

Admiral Yarnell's action grew out of repeated attacks by Japanese planes on Chinese positions along the edges of the settlement. These raids reached a climax Sunday when a Japanese bomber machine gunned British troops and a party of British and American horse-back riders on Keswick road, killing one British soldier.

The British immediately ordered their troops to act in self defense if such an attack were repeated.

United States authorities said 50 caliber anti-aircraft machine guns, making up part of the armament of the Sixth Regiment of marines, had not been set up yet. They hoped it would not be necessary to bring them into play.

Self Defense

Admiral Yarnell's order said "In case of attack with bombs or machine guns by airplanes of any nationality on defense forces or non-combatants in the sector defended by the Second United States Marine Brigade, the command chief has authorized these forces to open fire in self defense."

This was an extension of an order given the Asiatic fleet September 2.

Destruction of fire and sword reached new dimensions as Chinese retreated from the Chapel section north of the International Settlement.

Flames penetrated the settlement at one point and by mid-afternoon had consumed a square block of closely-packed houses on Tibet Road. All available foreign fire engines deployed along Soochow Creek, which flows between Chapel and the International area, to keep the blaze from spreading.

Settlement authorities were optimistic of success because the wind was from the east, blowing the flames parallel to the settlement.

Tonight promised to be one of the most uneasy since the Shanghai warfare started.

The fires were started by both Chinese and Japanese. Chinese put torches to buildings to cover their retreat from positions they had held for more than two months. Japanese did likewise to drive Chinese rearward snipers from barricades and blasted ruins of British and American defense forces guarding settlement borders against possible military emergencies became fire guards.

Occupy Chapel

As the flames roared on, Japanese warplanes strafed retreating Chinese with bombs and machine-gun bullets. The Japanese announced their forces had occupied Chapel, but said a number of isolated Chinese units remained.

Just west of the settlement boundary, Chinese and Japanese armies faced each other from opposite banks of Soochow Creek. During the night and day of fighting in which Japanese occupied Chapel—China's Alcazar—Chinese were driven across the Shanghai-Nanking railroad and down the northwest boundary of the foreign area.

Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's warriors dug in along the southern bank of the creek, prepared to force Japanese to wage another major engagement.

British defenders closed barbed wire gates and refused to permit any more refugees fleeing from Japanese to enter the settlement. Thousands of Chinese surged against the barricades, screaming in terror, but British declared opening the gateway would imperil the settlement.

Because machine gun fire endangered the settlement's western border, the British consul general warned all British nationals to be ready to evacuate dangerous territory.

City Stamp Show November 5 and 6

The two day exhibit to take place at the Governor Clinton hotel on November 5 and 6 should prove to be most interesting to the people of Kingston. Rare United States and foreign stamps will be on display and will occupy one of the large rooms at the hotel.

Pitcairn Island, Christmas Island, and other envelopes mailed from out of the way places in the South Seas; the so-called Farley's Pollies, stamps from the Vatican, scarce U. S. parcel posts, the new British coronations, the latest emissions of the Soviet, of Nazi Germany, of Mussolini's government—all these and many more, too numerous to mention will be shown.

Mrs. Matthew T. DeWitt of Hurley and C. H. Van der Loo, of the Mavrick road, Woodstock, have donated valuable prizes, as special awards.

Theatre Groups To Play at Bard

The Ulster County Theatre Association will try out its first production, "Give Us This Day," by the Kingston playwright, Howard E. Koch, at the Bard College Theatre, before bringing the play to Kingston.

For the past five seasons, the theatre at Bard College has been offering productions, both amateur and semi-professional, which have aroused interest, not merely in surrounding communities, but in dramatic circles of New York and elsewhere.

Bard College, formerly Saint Stephens, is connected with Columbia University. The theatre was constructed originally by students under the direction of Harvey Fite, now an art instructor at the college.

Later this season, the Ulster County Theatre Association will bring one of the Bard College productions to Kingston, as part of a plan to make the Association's program for the season as varied and interesting as possible.

Mayor Says Judge Ignorant of Law

highest revenue received in the past 10 years?"
I am astonished to know that the city judge is so ignorant of the state law that he thinks cities of this state get any share of motor vehicle fees. No city, except New York city, receives any of these fees back from the state.
I refer the judge to my annual message to the common council, dated January 1, 1937. At that time, when he had no thought of being a candidate for mayor, he probably was not sufficiently interested in governmental problems or the affairs of his own city government to read the mayor's message. But at that time I complained with all the force at my command because the state took thousands of dollars in taxes out of the pockets of our local motorists and the city got not one cent back.

Here is what I said at that time:
Gasoline and Motor Vehicle Taxes
One of the greatest injustices of the state tax system, affecting cities, is the distribution of gasoline taxes and motor vehicle license fees.

Although Kingston must pay 25 per cent of the cost of county highway charges, the city taxpayers pay $38,190.97 in this budget, we receive no part of the gasoline taxes or motor vehicle license fees.

The county treasurer paid to the state during 1936 $252,533.63, representing license fees on approximately 21,000 motor vehicles. Of this sum, $98,942.10 was returned by the state to the county treasurer and credited to the county highway fund. The county treasurer also received from the state $138,737.40, representing the county's share of gasoline taxes. On this basis, it is estimated that the motorists of our state county paid $1,387,574.00 in state gasoline taxes during 1936.

Although the county received from these two sources revenues amounting to $237,679.50, it is interesting to note that under the state law the city of Kingston is not entitled to a share of these revenues, notwithstanding that a substantial proportion of these taxes were paid by residents of Kingston.

The State Mayors' Conference, of which I am a member, has tried unsuccessfully to have the state law amended so as to rectify this injustice. This is a matter of great importance to every taxpayer in the state (excepting New York city) which does participate in these taxes and I urge that the matter be called forcibly to the attention of the governor and the legislature.

Nails Insinuation
"In another place in the judge's speech," said Mayor Heislman, "the judge intimates that the fire board paid $1,600 more for the new fire truck than was necessary."

"The fire board bought the type of fire truck recommended by Fire Chief Murphy. I think the voters will agree with me that when it comes to picking out fire trucks they would rather have the specifications of Fire Chief Murphy than those of the city judge. Here is the letter, dated August 2, in which the fire chief recommended what type and kind of fire truck should be purchased. The fire board followed Fire Chief Murphy's advice, and I think they used excellent judgment. It's too bad that the city judge does not agree. Here is the letter that Fire Chief Murphy wrote to the fire board:

Fire Chief's Letter
August 2, 1937
To the Fire Board,
City of Kingston,
Kingston, New York.

After giving careful consideration to the bids on our original specifications for a new fire truck and pumper, calling for a 225-horsepower motor and a 1,000-gallon, 4-stage centrifugal pump, as well as on the alternate bids calling for a 200-horsepower motor, it is my opinion that we should purchase a truck according to our original specifications, which called for a 225-horsepower motor.

Inasmuch as the Mack Motor Truck Company are the lowest bidders, according to our original specifications, I recommend that the Mack truck be purchased.

Very truly yours,
(Signed) J. L. MURPHY,
Fire Chief.

"Another Falsehood"
At the same rally in which the judge displayed his ignorance of municipal matters the statement was made that $35,000 in federal funds appropriated to the National Youth Administration in Kingston has been used to carry out the city's playground program, and that credit for that program should be given to the government. That's another barefaced falsehood.

"As every one knows the city pays the salary of Sidney Lutzin, the director of the recreation committee of the city, and the city paid the salaries of the 20 young college men and women who served as playground directors during the past summer."

"It is true that the city used some of the youth of the National Youth Administration in playground activities and they did a good job too. These youth are paid $18.75 a month by the government. They are youth from needy families who are thus giving an opportunity to make a little money. These youth were placed at work on useless things until the administration working with those in charge of the NYA placed them at worthwhile projects where they would learn something. Some of the boys on the program were placed under the instruction of one of the city's carpenters, Fisher Brothers. He allowed the boys to use part of their plant and here under the direction of this carpenter they learned to make bleachers used in the parks, and also to build shelter houses. This was worthwhile work for the youth. When it comes to improving the youth of our city I will always work hand in hand with the government, but the statement that our playground activities was financed by the government is malicious, misleading and absolutely false.

It is just another sample of the wild and untrue statements that our opponents are using in an effort to win a few votes.

Mayor Heislman said that he understood that the judge used to be quite a baseball player, but it seemed to him that the judge was becoming dim because in this campaign the judge is knocking out plenty of fouls, making but few hits, no runs and plenty of errors.

In closing Mayor Heislman called attention that the city administration had passed through four of the most trying years in its history. The city had spent over a million dollars in bringing relief to those in need during the past four years in the city. With the assistance of the capable men and women who served with him on all of the city boards and departments the administration had been able to bring the ship of government safely through the stormy financial seas that had threatened to rock and upset the boat. As a result of a sound business administration the city administration had given the city lower taxes, and better and more improved municipal service at less cost.

Who could foretell what the coming two years had to offer. Was it wise to turn an efficient administration with all of its representing men and women forming a part of it out of office or was it for the best interest of the entire city to maintain in office men and women who had proven their worth and ability.

A continuance of sound government or not, that is the question that the voters of the city have to answer on November 2.

Explains Amendments.
Assemblyman J. Edward Conway said he had been invited to speak at the rally on the amendments that the voters were to vote on in November. On the first amendment or proposition to permit the state to issue bonds for new buildings and alterations to present state institutions he said that but little opposition had been heard in regard to it. He favored the amendment that lengthened the term of a governor and lieutenant governor to four years instead of the present two; and also of extending the term of the members of assembly from the present one year to two. Back in the days before the horse and buggy age when communication was hard and there were no telephones it was necessary to limit the terms of office, but modern times had made that obsolete. He gave both sides of the question of the amendment that would permit a person charged with a crime to waive trial by jury. Some favored and some did not. He left that question with his hearers to decide. Another amendment would permit a sheriff to succeed himself. Now a sheriff could only be elected for one term and could not be a candidate to succeed himself. He saw no reason why this amendment should not be adopted. Two of the amendments related to New York city and were not of particular interest to Kingston.

Attorney Louis G. Bruhn, president of the Republican City Club, spoke, urging the election of Mayor Heislman and the entire Republican ticket. Alderman-at-large John J. Schwenk also spoke briefly, as did Alderman Peyer, of the Eighth ward.

At the close of the speaking program refreshments were served.
